

Terms and Conditions

Whereas, Onlinebargaincity.com is providing to the user certain rights to place content on Onlinebargaincity.com website, the user agrees to the following rules and restrictions.

Content

1. All content posted by the user must be non-offensive and must be suitable for display to the general public. This includes any text, images, audio, video or links to content on other websites.
2. Any posted content that violates these terms is subject to editing or removal without notice. If you feel that the content should not have been edited or removed. You have the right to request a review of the content before your account is removed or termination. If your account is terminated for violation of these terms, you will be given an opportunity to post suitable content. If you are terminated you will have to adhere to and except the certificates that were sold to the consumer before your account was terminated.

Allowing Information

The user allows Onlinebargaincity.com to use their logo, pictures or any other content the user post on their profile page for use in advertising in print, on internet or even radio, to assist in creating consumers awareness of their certificates the user is offering on Onlinebargaincity.com web page. Onlinebargaincity.com will also use this information to email consumers that they would think would be interested in purchasing users certificates.

Providing Certificates

The user agrees that they are the owner of the business or is the business contact that makes decisions on behalf of the business owner and is allowed to sign a contract allowing onlinebargaincity.com to sell certificates on behalf of the business.

The user agrees to allow onlinebargaincity.com to sell certificates on behalf of the business name that is provided for the profile. Onlinebargaincity.com will sell those certificates at a discounted price. The discount could range from 10% to 95% depending on what would attract consumers to purchase said certificates.

The user is allowed to terminate this contract anytime they choose but would have to adhere to the following

1. Contact Onlinebargaincity.com in writing on when they would like to terminate the contract of selling the certificates. Onlinebargaincity.com then would take users profile page down.
2. The user would have to except certificates that were sold to the consumer up until the time the contract was terminated and profile page was taken down.

It is expressly agreed that clicking on the box stating "I Agree", shall have the same force and affect as if the parties had signed this agreement.
